

Hatchery Garage Destroyed By Fire

NEW HATCHERY BUILDING MENACED

Grayling Fish hatchery is minus a garage, but the new hatchery building still stands. Fire broke out in the garage building Monday afternoon and it, together with its contents, were entirely consumed. It is the opinion of Fire Chief Oliver Cody that the conflagration started from a stove. In the building was a quantity of tools and cement. Everything was destroyed.

Prompt response by Grayling fire department to a call for help by Superintendent Hans L. Peterson saved the fine new hatchery building from burning. And in this heroic work of the fire department Grayling's new fire apparatus played an important part. The river provided plenty of water and in quick time five lines of hose were playing upon the burning structure. The fire had had a terrific start and was pretty hot when the department arrived but the firemen soon had it under control.

The burning garage was only a few feet away from the new hatchery building. It is estimated that the loss will amount to about $480.00.

BENEFIT PLAY FOR UNDER-PRIVILEGED CHILDREN

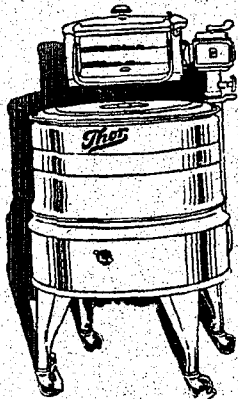

Everyone feels as if they'd like to help the underprivileged child—the little chap that doesn't get some of the things out of life that he should. It isn't going to cost any one individual very much to help and a lot of individuals together can do so much towards this big item.

The Underprivileged Child committee of the Kiwanis Club, consisting of Dr. Stanley A. Stealy, Mr. Willard Cornell and Mr. Frank Bennett, are sponsoring a home talent play "THREE LIVE GHOSTS", to be given at the High school auditorium Wednesday, March 24th, and they are asking that you turn out 100 percent towards a good cause.

Remember, don't fail to see "THREE LIVE GHOSTS."

District Basket Ball Tournament

GRAYLING LOST TO GAYLORD IN OPENING FRACAS

Gaylord had its first high school district basketball tournament and it is reported as being a success in every way. The new gymnasium held huge crowds every night, all followers of the various teams who were participating. Grayling of course was well represented.

Gaylord did themselves proud when they carried off the honors of the tournament by first defeating Grayling on Friday night and Mancelona in the Class C finals Saturday night. Roscommon High school easily won the honors in Class D and took home the trophy.

Following is what the Gaylord Herald-Times will have to say about the Grayling-Gaylord game.

The games of Friday night were the ones looked to as real battles because all four Class C teams were playing, and all had shown equal strength during the season. And they were battles, too, as can be attested to by the '90 fans in attendance.

Right at the tip-off of the first game, Grayling with two passes scored the first basket. Then the battle began, both teams playing at a terrific pace, taking advantage of every opening, guarding when on the defensive as if there was more than a game at stake.

At the quarter Grayling was leading 7 to 5. At the half it was 12 and 13 for Gaylord, at three quarters 15 and 19 for Gaylord, and the finals 17 and 19.

It was anybody's game throughout. Gaylord, with two minutes to go had a three point lead, but a foul cut that margin to two, and with only a half minute to go, Chalker let go one of those long-toms that have made him famous, which hit the inside of the basket, but too hard to strike. Gaylord recovered and took the ball out to mid-field again, to hold it for the whistle.

It can be truthfully said that Gaylord had the best team or that Grayling had. Both were superb, and took advantage of every break.

Chalker was high point man with 10 points. Simmons was high for Grayling with 7. Chalker missed two foul shots and Simmons scored three for a hundred percent.

DR. C. A. SMITH PASSED AWAY

Charles Andrew Smith passed away at his home Monday morning. He had been in ill health for years and Sunday was taken seriously ill, passing away the following day.

Dr. Smith was born June 22, 1861 in Lorraine, Ohio, the only son of W. L. and Annette Smith. Mr. Smith's boyhood was spent in Ohio and at an early age he began the study of medicine, graduating from Electric Medical College in 1886. Two years later he took a post graduate course in Berlin, Germany, and while abroad also studied at Paris, France. He settled in Warsaw, Ind., in 1890 and practiced his profession for several years. On April 6, 1896 he was united in marriage to Jenny Hogue whose father was also a physician.

To the union one daughter Mabel was born. In 1905 he came to Michigan and was married for the second time on June 11, that same year, to Miss P. B. Penn. To this union one daughter Carena was born. Doctor Smith's health began to fail and after a couple of years he gave up his medical practice. Dr. Smith was a very interesting person to converse with. In his later years he took pride in having a nice vegetable garden and spent most of his time cultivating it.

The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon with services held at the Sorenson funeral chapel, Rev. Edgar Flory officiating. Interment was in Elmwood cemetery. Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Penn, Hastings, Earl Penn and family of Vassar and John Penn of West Branch were here in attendance at the funeral.

Independent Tourney March 18-19-20

Grayling's Invitational Basketball tournament for independent teams will be held March 18-19-20. There will be two cash prizes awarded; the major prize of $25 will go to the winner of the tournament while $10 will go to the consolation winner.

The following teams have indicated their desire to enter: Hannah-Loy Docks of Traverse City, twice winners in the past Lumberjack tournaments, and still are using their same lineup when they participate here; West Branch Merchants, conquerors of the crack Suburban Oils of Bay City; Roscommon Ramblers, having one of the strongest teams in years; Gaylord A. C., playing stellar basketball all season, losing but few games on their own floor.

Cheboygan also has made inquiries about entering this tournament and if they should enter the local fans will see one of the best teams in northern Michigan. They have defeated college and professional teams this season.

The Hanson Cafe quintet of Grayling of course will be in and will make a strong bid for the major prize.

Two more teams will be selected by Saturday, from Mt. Pleasant, Houghton Lake, Kalkaska and Petoskey.

With this array of basketball teams, fans in this section of the state will be treated to plenty of action, both in team play and individual stars.

Four games will be played Thursday and Friday nights, the games starting at 7 o'clock, with a game every hour, the last game starting at ten o'clock. Saturday night the consolation final will start at 8 o'clock, followed by the tournament final at 9 o'clock.

Admission for these nights are adults 35c and children 15 cents per night. The full schedule of games will appear in next week's issue. Watch for it.

FULL OF PERCH

It was a big night Wednesday when the members of the Kiwanis club broke loose for a play time and the committee, consisting of Amos Hunter, "Tiny" Russell and Farnum Fattson, staged a perch fry at the Mrs. John Stephan Knecht cabin on the AuSable.

Never have we seen a group of men who could consume so many perch at one meal. Heaping platters of boned and crispy brown perch, with delicious French fried potatoes and fruit salad were placed upon the tables and it kept the congenial waiters busy keeping the platters filled. Fried perch are always a favorite but when they are fried as these were, they are doubly delicious, and the Kiwanians more than did justice to them.

Of course there was plenty of singing, but only necessary speeches were allowed. The rest of the evening was spent in card games. "Tubby" Holler of Cheboygan, Dr. Charles R. Ardis, Stanley Flower and Adolph Peterson of Grayling, were guests.

Next Wednesday will be anniversary night, at which the ladies will be present. Judge Arthur E. Pierpont of Owosso will be the principal speaker, and Judge Charles E. Moore the master of ceremonies.

ALBERT MARKBY PASSED AWAY AT AM. LEGION HOSPITAL

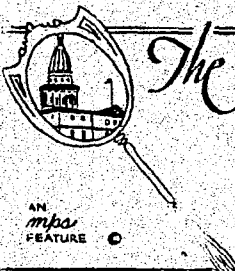

Albert Markby, age 49, passed away at the American Legion Hospital at Battle Creek on March 3, where he had been a patient since January 24th. Tuberculosis was the cause of death from which the deceased had been suffering for some time.

The remains were brought to Grayling and the funeral held Saturday afternoon with services at Sorenson's funeral chapel, Rev. Edgar Flory officiating and interment was at Fairview, Mich.

Mr. Markby was born in Mio, August 13, 1887, and was united in marriage to Grace Maxson at Lewiston about 25 years ago. The family resided at Mio, coming to Grayling 15 years ago and have since made their home here.

Surviving the deceased besides his widow are four daughters and one son, Mrs. Belle Sterling, Viola, Grace and Rosalie Markby and Albert Jr. Also a step-daughter Mrs. Leona Sherman of Marine City, a brother and two sisters, Percy, Gertrude and Della Markby of Mio. All have the sympathy of many friends in their bereavement.

LANSING—Michigan farms and farm-houses are rapidly being "modernized" through a revolutionary change which is taking place quietly, without fanfare or ballyhoo.

In 1926 less than 2 per cent of the farms had electric service. In 1930 the federal census revealed 170,000 farms. Today more than one-third of these have electric service, nearly 10,000 being added last year. Encouraged by private power companies and spurred on by Washington, rural electrification is making great strides. Last week Presque Isle county farmers received federal support for a cooperative line. Governor Murphy pledged, a few days ago, his support to the Fruit Belt Rural Electrification association, a new group affecting Allegan, Barry, Cass, Kalamazoo, Ottawa, and Van Buren counties.

Historic Fort St. Ignace
Two and a half centuries ago when Michigan was a wilderness of forests, St. Ignace took possession, in the name of the King of France and with consent of Indian tribes, of the land of the Great Lakes from the Soo to the Gulf of Mexico.

That was the historic beginning of Fort St. Ignace, a French army post fronting strategically on a high bluff. In military importance, the fort was second to none west of Montreal.

As a link to the past, Dr. C. N. Connon, former resident of St. Ignace, has just offered the site on the same bluff of land where the St. Ignace Lions club intends to reconstruct the fort as a historic shrine.

Bone-Dry Prohibition
From maps, sketches and copies of letters now in the public archives in Ottawa and Paris, the Rev. Father John T. Holland of St. Ignace has found the original plans of the French military fort.

From 1694 to 1701 during Antoine de la Mothe Cadillac's incumbency, the fort was the center of a community which harbored 200 soldiers and from 6,000 to 8,000 Indians, a Jesuit mission, and a flourishing colony of fur traders.

Along with Sault Ste. Marie, the post of St. Ignace were the first spots in Michigan to know bone-dry prohibition. This decree was issued by King Louis XIV of France.

Here is proof again that history DOES repeat itself.

A Growing Industry
Michigan, capital of the motor world, is the home of another thriving, growing industry—transportation by trucks.

John Vanderjagt of Grand Rapids, president of the Michigan Transporters association, presided this week at an annual mid-year conference in Lansing. "Truckers" are interested in state legislation relating to interstate truck regulations, hours of service for employees, and highway safety.

Syphilis Control
An interesting problem in cause and effect is seen by sociologists in two recent developments:

1. Additional facilities are needed at insane hospitals to meet the rising number of cases in Michigan. Medical experts plead with legislators for state aid, citing overcrowding of wards and shortage of beds. Also more than 1,000 applications for feeble-minded care are now on file.

2. Senator Roosevelt (Detroit) sponsors senate bill No. 104 providing free medical treatment for indigent persons infected with syphilis and requiring investigation of all cases on record.

Syphilis, proclaimed openly today as America's No. 1 scourge, causes many cases of insanity and feeble-mindedness, according to competent authorities. Here is something to think about.

Smelt Jamboree
Unique in fishing events the country over will be the Fifth Annual National Smelt Jamboree Saturday, March 20, at East Jordan.

From Detroit, Lansing, Grand Rapids, Traverse City and Belaire will come a "smelters' special" train, timed to bring fishermen for the much famed smelt run.

With Michigan's traditional flair for promotion, East Jordan will stage a parade, lumbering acts, boxing matches, and as the grand climax of all, Newaygo Newt will challenge all comers in a world championship spitting contest.

You can have your choice. The Charlevoix Courier confides that spitters may "tum-m," "phut," "tooph," or "splat" spit through their teeth, or even through their fingers. But you must spit. Dribblers don't count.

Fishing and Stream Pollution
If the tourist industry in Michigan is worth $10,000,000 a year—and much of this business comes from the organized efforts of the four tourist associations—"then isn't it logical that Michigan should protect its streams—make them habitable for fish life?"

The legislature has just been informed by the state stream control committee that Michigan was one of the worst stream-pollution offenders by dumping of brine and sewage sludge.

Miscellany
Michigan and California, both meriting distinction as tourist states, now have one thing more in common: Earthquakes.

While Washington is the arena of the supreme court tug-of-war, Michigan is having its own political battle between the democrats, headed by Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner with a key to federal highway funds, and republicans, led by Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, exponent of more state aid for public schools.

Political analysts are studying the possible election effects of the declaration by Governor Murphy, while vacationing in Florida, that he favored generous state aid for public schools.

THE MAUREEN SHOPPE TO OPEN NEXT THURSDAY

Mrs. Maude M. Hanson is announcing the opening of the Maureen Shoppe which will be located in the Kraus building. The opening is set for Thursday, March 18, and a tea and Easter parade will be held at Shoppenagons Inn from four to five o'clock that afternoon to which the public is cordially invited.

Womans Club

The Womans Club sponsored a style show in the banquet rooms of Michelson Memorial church Monday, March 8. The committee in charge was Mrs. A. J. Joseph, Mrs. Louise Connine and Miss Margrethe Bauman.

Miss Turnath opened the program by discussing the effects of fashion in business.

In a very clever manner, Miss McDonald described each costume as it appeared. The parade opened with lounging pajamas and continued with gowns for all occasions. Helen Pond modeled a very beautiful evening hair dress. Music for the parade was furnished by Miss Bath.

During intermission Patsy Hope Heric, Roberta Redhead and Betty Underwood entertained with a dance number and the High School orchestra played several pieces.

The following persons acted as models: Mrs. Bond, Mrs. Crosby, Mrs. Miller, Laura Johnson, Mrs. Trudgeon, Mary Gretchen Connine, Mary Jane Joseph, Mrs. Hoelsi, Mrs. Gierke, Mrs. Heath, Jerrine Peterson, Ann Brady, Helen Pond and Jane Milnes.

The garments were furnished through the courtesy of Grayling Mercantile Co., and Mrs. Cooley's Gift Shop. Coiffures were by Betty Mae Beauty Shoppe, Blanche Beauty Shoppe and Tiny's Beauty Shoppe.

The next meeting will be held Monday, March 15, at the Annex. Immediately following the business session the members will meet their guests in the lobby of Shoppenagons Inn, and a play will be presented for the pleasure of the assemblage.

Corresponding Sec'y.

Effect of Fashion on Business.
Fashion satisfies deep, instinctive needs of human nature. If we cannot dress as our friends do, we are apt to consider ourselves failures. Becoming and fashionable clothing that makes one appear well in the group is often a big factor in success. Changes of fashion come about in three ways (1) partly because we grow tired of seeing everybody wearing the same thing for a long time and desire change and (2) because we desire adventure and excitement, and changes of fashion supply this need to some extent. (3) Sometimes various groups in the clothing industry try to speed up and exaggerate the changes of fashion in order to make people buy more cloth.

BUILDINGS BEING REMOVED

To make room for the new $70,000 Postoffice building, the buildings are being removed from the site on the corner of Michigan and Peninsular avenues.

The Goudrow building was purchased by Sam Rasmussen and has been moved to the property he recently purchased on Michigan avenue. Mr. Rasmussen plans to remodel the building into a dwelling, and will occupy it. The Nick Schjotz house, known as the Insley house is being moved back on the lot, and the building of Mrs. N. P. Olson has been purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Harley Russell and they will have it moved to their lot on US-27.

Dimple Wells Made Hit With Solons

Miss Dimple Wells, of Kalkaska, who was selected Mid-West Winter Queen at Grayling's Winter carnival out of a group of ten queens from as many cities and three states, is meeting with favor wherever she goes.

Recently she was presented before the Michigan legislature by Senator Miles Callaghan, who had presided at her coronation in Grayling February 20th. Senator Callaghan took a lot of pride in introducing Miss Wells to his colleagues and state officials. Photographs were taken of the young lady with Lieutenant Governor Nowicki and Senator Felix Flynn of Cadillac, senator from Miss Wells' district.

The committee of judges who selected Miss Wells is coming in for a lot of praise for their good judgment. Miss Wells has a charming personality, is graceful and intelligent. In every way she is a charming young lady, and is a credit to the mid-west states that she was chosen to represent, and to Grayling Winter Sports, Inc., who made it possible for her to have a part in Grayling's winter sports activities.

Dimple Wells' real name is Ruth, but her large, attractive dimples soon gained for her the nickname that so becomes her. Ever since childhood she has been known almost exclusively as "Dimples." Grayling people are proud of the part they have had in making it possible for Miss Wells to acquire the prominence that is certain to come to her providing she chooses the right paths in the upward climb.

MOTHER AND CHILD PASS AWAY

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at Sorenson's funeral chapel for Mrs. Estella Marie Weller, Rev. Edgar Flory officiating. Mrs. Weller, age 25, passed away at her home at 1:40 o'clock Sunday morning after giving birth to a child, the infant passing away also.

The deceased is survived by her husband Howard Weller, and three children Della Marie, Rosemary and Alfred Louis, all of Flint, also her mother Mrs. David Lovely of Montana, one sister, and two brothers. Mr. Weller arrived from Flint Tuesday and made the funeral arrangements, and others here in attendance were the deceased's sister Mrs. Myrtle Horest, Mt. Morris, and brothers Joseph and James Banfield and aunt Mrs. O. M. Turner, Saginaw. Before her marriage Mrs. Weller was Estella Banfield.

A SOUND DOCTRINE

Every governmental official or board that handles public money should publish at regular intervals an accounting of it, showing where and how each dollar is spent. We held this to be a fundamental principle of democratic government.

MOVE MICHIGAN'S CAPITOL TO GRAYLING

Although it is not generally known—at least not discussed now—the Michigan State Capitol was originally located at Detroit and moved away from that city to Lansing to get the legislature, State officers and State employees away from the seductive glamour of the metropolis. If these were good reasons for moving the Capitol then, out of Detroit, then there is as good reason for moving the Capitol out of Lansing now. Lansing is now considerably larger than was Detroit when the people demanded the removal of the Capitol therefrom.

The Constitution was adopted by the people, and by it the Capitol is fixed at Lansing. But there is no reason why the people may not alter or amend the Constitution and provide for the location of the Capitol elsewhere.

It may be objected that the Capitol ought not to be moved because of the buildings now built in Lansing. The Capitol building itself is ancient and, though well built, is more than 60 years old—poorly ventilated, with inadequate elevator service, and used as a runway for school children and others. It has outlived its usefulness except as an architectural antique. The State Office Building, though more modern in some respects, is an architectural monstrosity and misfitly adapted for the purposes for which it is used. The junk value of these buildings, plus the value of the State's lands located in Lansing, would probably reimburse the State and prevent any serious financial loss.

In these times when it is claimed there is lack of employment, the wrecking and sale of these old buildings and the erection of new and more modern structures would give employment to a large number of skilled and unskilled employees.

The space allotted to the law library, the general library, and the office space available to the Auditor General and the Secretary of State is wholly inadequate. Employees are compelled to work in ill ventilated and unsanitary places where no private corporation would be permitted to house its employees under the laws of the State of Michigan. As a health measure, the premises where these employees are compelled to work ought to be condemned and would be condemned if they belonged to anyone else except the State.

There are many departments—and the number is constantly increasing—and the number of employees constantly mounting—that cannot be housed in the present buildings and the State is compelled to and does rent in various buildings office space for State offices.

Lansing is not centrally located. It is not even a handsome city. Probably there is no more unsightly river in Michigan than the Grand river as it flows through the city of Lansing.

Lansing is situated on low, damp, clay soil, and is extremely hot in summer. The humidity of the atmosphere is much greater than in many other places in the State.

People who have business at the Capitol or at the State offices find no adequate parking space, and if they should park in the city streets they are likely to get a red ticket from the police department.

The State owns plenty of land in a more healthful climate, where pure water is available, where a Capitol building could be erected in a more central location and where parking space could be made available without the petty annoyances to which citizens are subjected when they want to do business with public officials, and away from any of the allurements of a great city.

Australia had substantially the same experience with its Federal Capitol. They finally acquired territory entirely separate from any city, established a Federal Capitol territory, and in it erected a new modern Capitol.

Why should not Michigan have a new and modern Capitol and adequate, modern office buildings? Why should these not be centrally located? Why should they not be in a territory where there is better climate and better water? Why should not the State acquire sufficient land to get away from local police regulations, establish a district in which it may set up a local government, and do something really for the benefit of the people, the welfare of its employees, and for the State?

There is no better location for Michigan's capitol than right here in Grayling. This city is as nearly centrally located as it could possibly be. We have here the finest climate and finest water to be found anywhere in the state. The state owns a reservation of about 18,000 acres of land within a quarter mile of the city and no expensive site would have to be acquired. Grayling is readily accessible by train, auto and by plane, with a state-owned air plane landing field.

Get Michigan's Capitol out of the seductive glamour of its present metropolitan area. Bring it to Grayling where we have everything of advantage to offer.

THEY'RE NOT DISCOURAGED

"Plans now shaping are expected to make next winter the best and biggest ever," announce the northern winter sports centers. With this note of optimism they watch the last snow melt from the skiing slopes, dismantle the toboggan slides, drain the skating ponds, and lock the gates of the parks on about the most discouraging experience that ever befell a new enterprise.

For several years we have had a series of cold and snowy winters. During that time the public gradually awakened to the delights of winter recreation but was hampered by the lack of places suitably equipped to accommodate them.

Grayling, Petoskey, and other towns finally leaped into the breach by establishing winter sports parks and organizing snow and ice carnivals, so that this year, when the enthusiasm of the public mounted to a peak, the necessary facilities were ready for use. And then, ironically, for the first time in years we had no winter. It has been a bitter blow to the would-be sportsmen, and an even more bitter one to the ambitious towns which were at heavy expense in preparation for business that never arrived.

But are they downhearted? No! Hope springs from the knowledge that there are practically never too such winters in succession, and seldom more than one in a decade. The set-back is taken stoically. "Plans are shaping for next year." These towns will push ahead, as they should, with unabated speed, to make Michigan the winter recreation ground it is undoubtedly destined to be.—Detroit News.

MUST HAVE LICENSE TO DIP SMELT

With the season for smelt dipping approaching, conservation authorities here are reminding sportsmen well in advance that the 50-cent resident fishing license is required of all Michigan persons taking part in smelt runs.

The smelt begin their spawning runs up the smaller streams and creeks on a rising water temperature and are expected to appear in many of the streams the latter part of March.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to our neighbors and friends for their kindness and sympathy during our late bereavement.

Sultana Explosion

At 1 A. M. on April 27, 1865, at a point on the Mississippi river about eight miles above Memphis, Tenn., the northern-bound Sultana began to rock violently. She was topheavy with her load of 2,142 Union soldiers returning from Confederate captivity, for her hold was empty. The rocking motion agitated the water in the boilers, already enduring pressure far beyond their stated strength. In mid-stream, the strained metal gave way with a roar heard for miles and the United States had the biggest ship disaster in its history. The loss of life—1,739—was greater than in the sinking of the Titanic or the Lusitania.

in the Ford "60"*

The 60-horsepower Ford V-8 engine was first developed for Europe, where fuel costs are high. Two years' usage there proved its unusual economy.

When the "60" came to this country this year, the Ford Motor Company made no mileage claims—waited for facts, written on American roads by American drivers.

Now Ford "60" owners are reporting averages of 22 to 27 miles on a gallon of gasoline. That makes it the most economical Ford car ever built!

Best of all, the Ford "60" is just as big and roomy—just as handsome, sturdy and safe—as the famous 85-horsepower Ford V-8. And it sells at the lowest Ford price in years.

If you want a big car for a small budget—a car you can drive with pride and profit—see the thrifty "60" soon!

INTERESTING ITEMS OF NEWS GATHERED FROM THE FILES OF THE AVALANCHE OF 23 YEARS AGO

Thursday, March 12, 1914

Note those broad smiles, those high steps and those happy looks on the faces of Dolph SanCarter and Walter Woods. Well, it's all on account of those baby boys that came to their homes on Sunday last.

Forty-two neighbors and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Stillwell Monday evening and gave them a jolly surprise in honor of their seventeenth wedding anniversary.

This community was greatly shocked on Tuesday morning of this week, by the startling news of the death of James J. Collen. Mr. Collen had been ill for several weeks and on February 27th was moved to Mercy Hospital. The doctor pronounced the case bronchial pneumonia. He leaves to mourn him his loving wife and companion, and seven children, Alonzo, Samuel and Mary, of this city; Ralph and Mrs. Mabel Roe of Detroit; George of Seattle, Wash., and Carl of Ketchikan, Alaska, and his brother George, of Grayling.

Miss Rose Gross arrived on Saturday from Flint for a few days visit with relatives.

They leave Miss Agnes improving very nicely at Mercy Hospital, where she underwent an operation recently.

J. K. Bates arrived home from New York state on Saturday last, and smilingly announced to some of his friends that while he didn't bring his wife back with him, that he had one just the same. The lady was formerly Mrs. Harriett Benton, of Caughdenoy, N. Y., and her acquaintance with Mr. Bates has lasted over a period of forty-five years. She has a pleasant home at that place where the happy couple have decided to make their future home. On Monday afternoon Dr. H. H. Merriman's horse ran away. Doctor telephoned Niederers, for that was the direction the horse was headed for, who said that they had just seen it pass. Dr. Merriman and R. D. Connine and the delivery wagon horse gave chase and followed the horse to Pere Cheney where Dr. Merriman got another horse and pursued it farther, leaving Mr. Connine at Pere Cheney. About six miles beyond this city Dr. came upon his prey. All got home at 4:00 o'clock Tuesday morning, no damage being done however to horse or cutter. While Dr. Merriman was feeling sorry to leave Mr. Connine at Pere Cheney in order to lighten the load "R. D." was feeling different about the matter for it is said that there was a dance on in full swing and he raced over to the dance hall, just for tonight, while at home the wife was peacefully sitting by the fireside awaiting the return of the cheerful face to the Connine domicile.

Colon is the official Spanish name for the archipelago popularly known as the Galapagos Islands. Colon is Spanish for Columbus and this is the name used by the Republic of Ecuador, to which the islands belong.

ONCE BIT

The new assistant at the seed shop was having a harassing time. Someone had ordered a packet of potato seed, and he had spent two hours looking for it. At last he asked the boss about it.

"You idiot," roared the boss, "potatoes are not grown from seed. You've been having your leg pulled."

Ten minutes later a customer entered the shop and asked for some bird seed. The assistant wagged a finger at him and said:

"Go on! I can't be fooled twice. Birds are hatched out of eggs, not seed."

Don't Ball at Us!

The boy plodding steadily along the railroad track, his eyes on the roadbed, attracted the attention of a bystander. "Looking for something, Bud?" he asked.

The boy didn't look up. "Yeah," he said. "The president of the line."

"Ha, ha," ha-ha'd the bystander. "You won't find him there."

"Mebbe not," came back the young plodder, "but I'm on his track."

GUARD RIGHT

Guard—Who goes there?
Pompous Colonel—Fon!
Guard—Advance, fool, and give the countersign.

Over His Head

It was one of those matches of the season, on the ground on which the grass was, if anything, a little too plentiful. The diminutive but self-important referee had been giving little satisfaction.

A number of somewhat inexplicable decisions had been endured patiently, when, finally, a voice inquired in very penetrating accents: "Why don't they cut the grass so that the referee can see the game?"

Masterful Man

They were walking along North Main street and paused in the glare of a brightly lighted jewelry store. Unlike her escort, she seemed in no hurry to continue.

"Look," she said, "did you ever see such good looking engagement rings for such a low price?"

He was the masterful type. Taking her arm firmly, he answered "Uh-huh. But look over here. Isn't that a swell ring for only $11.95?"

The Law

Constable—Beg pardon, Miss, but there ain't no swimmin' allowed in this lake.

Constable—Well, there don't happen to be any law against undressing.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Recreation Notes

The Intramural League has been quite busy the past week, each team playing two games and ending up with a pair of All-star games with Roscommon on Saturday.

Still setting a fast pace, Ted Nelson's five maintained their lead by winning a pair of games, while Junior May and his team won over Richard Lowe's quintet to take second place, so that leaves Lowe in third and Bob Welsh and his flyweights in fourth.

We had two games with Roscommon Saturday morning, losing the first and winning the last one.

The first game was in the "paperweight" class, with Grayling coming out on the short end of a 15-8 count. H. Wycoff was high scorer with seven points, while Ross Thompson paced the losers with four.

In the main event Roscommon took an early lead and the score at the half stood: Roscommon 8; Grayling 2. In the second half things began to explode. With Ted Nelson leading the parade with eight points, the Grayling boys "opened up" to win over the boys down south by the score of 13-8.

what Irvin S. Cobb thinks about:

Privacy for the Windsors.

SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—"In order to live quietly and escape as much public attention as possible—" I'm quoting the dispatch—"the duke of Windsor and Mrs. Simpson, following their marriage, will seek a secluded residence in the United States."

The idea is not new. Hoping to kill Stanford White in some very remote secret nook, Harry Thaw picked out a New York roof garden on the first night of a big musical comedy. And only lately one of our movie queens, striving to get away from it all, put on all her portable jewelry and went to the Broadway preview of one of those colossal, titanic, gigantic, mastodontic super-screen epics, only to come forth complaining that one could never flee to the most private of hiding places without being annoyed by crowds.

So America is certainly the right place for the newlyweds' honeymoon—where nobody will stare at them, or follow them, or yell at them or ask for autographs or photographs or interviews or try to tear their clothes off for souvenirs.

Why, just off-hand, I can think of fully three spots where famous folks may enjoy such immunity—Mount McKinley in the winter, Death Valley in the summer and Alcatraz island all the year round.

Giving Up Earl Browder. FOR years it has been my regular custom to give up something during Lent. Last year I gave up boiled turnips—I never eat boiled turnips, anyhow—and jokes about Mae West.

The year before, I gave up "Anthony Adverse" (at page 2,749) and nearly all Little Theater movements. The year before I gave up Upton Sinclair as my spiritual guide in matters political.

For this year I decided to give up Mr. Earl Browder. I don't quarrel with his sincerity. He happens, though, to be the outstanding exponent in America of the communist movement, which has done so much for human happiness and human progress in the countries that tried it, such as Russia.

Victory Dinners.

WHO says New Dealers aren't smart business men? That $100 victory dinner means a clear profit of $94.70, figuring the food at $5 a head and the combined speeches at 30 cents, which, even if they average up to most after-dinner speeches, is indeed a high valuation.

Back in Andy Jackson's day you could pay off a campaign deficit with hoop poles and con pelts. And in Thomas Jefferson's time the strongest pack mule in Virginia couldn't tote $100 worth of vittles. So, naturally Jeffersonian simplicity and Jacksonian thrift will be extolled.

Presumably the Republicans will follow suit with a nonvictory dinner or donation shower for John Hamilton's hope chest. Needy guests will wear Liberty Leaguers' old clothes, while the idea of having Canada annex Maine and Vermont will be strongly opposed.

Congressman Ham Fish will speak—such being his habit—unless, for economy's sake, they switch his name around hind part before and serve him as two courses.

Signs of Spring.

OUT here the first sign of spring is not the birds coming back. Mainly, our birds don't sit away. They go mute awhile, being practically the only residents that even temporarily refrain from bragging about the climate, or, in case of a cold snap, explaining that this is very unusual.

With us the herald of spring is the surf-bather—that hardy adventurer who plunges in and comes forth as blue as an Easter egg and as deflated-looking as a toy balloon on the morning after circus day. Because the Pacific is never what you'd call a real cozy ocean and especially it isn't following a chill-some winter.

We make fun of the bathing suits our mothers wore. But middle-aged persons of both sexes sporting on the beach in the modern skimpiest present a morbid, not to say gruesome, spectacle, except to students of the adult human leg, including the slabby-shanked, the full-cafted, the bowed, the double-jointed, the buckled, the knock-kneed, the spavined, the ankle-sprung, the heavy-hocked, the varicose-veined, the fur-bearing, etc., etc.

Sometimes a fellow gets to thinking that right young babies and raw oysters are almost the only things that should ever be exhibited on the half-shell.

Glass at the Patent Centennial

"Earth's Biggest Show" in Miniature

George H. Barlow III of Binghamton, N. Y., spent ten years constructing the "Earth's Biggest Show," a complete circus in miniature. It comprises 100,000 parts, scaled to five-eighths of an inch to the foot.

Patterned After the Grey Goose

Here is the "Grey Goose," an airplane that has been evolved by J. E. Caldwell after years of study of the flight of birds and particularly the flight of the Canadian grey goose after which it has been named. However, the plane uses the rotating action of cylinders and blades in place of the flapping of birds' wings, and the motive power is generated by a 96-horse-power engine. A frame of duraluminum that is about 16 feet long and 25 feet wide, with small wings on each side and with two rotating metal cylinders that have rotating horizontal blades on each side, make up the Caldwell plane.

LIFE'S LITTLE JESTS

HINTING

The Aberdonian had been courting his girl for some time and had at last plucked up sufficient courage to propose to her.

But somehow, when the moment arrived, things didn't seem to be quite so easy.

"I was here on Monday night, wasn't I, Jeanie?" he began.

"Ye was that."

"And I was here again on Tuesday night."

"That's so."

"And I was back again on Wednesday night?"

"Ye was, Ian."

"An' this is Friday and here I am again. Oh, Jeanie, d'ye no' smell a rat?"—Answers Magazine.

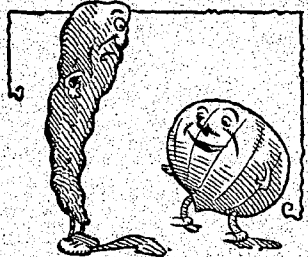

Useless Clock

Pat always was late for work, and the foreman advised him to buy an alarm clock. The Irishman did so, but still he continued to put in a belated appearance at his job.

"Why can't you turn up at the right time, Pat, now you've got an alarm clock?" asked the foreman.

"Bedad," replied Pat, "it's no good; it goes off when I'm asleep."—Exchange.

OH, SQUASH

"Wrestle with you? I should say not, you're too strong for me, Mr. Onion!"

Cautious Passenger

Old Lady—Is this the train to Hamburg?

Guard—Yes, ma'am—jump in.

Old Lady—Are you sure it goes to Hamburg?

Guard—Well, ma'am, the stationmaster, the engine driver, the stoker and the waiter in the dining saloon say it goes to Hamburg, and that is all I know.

One Thing on Two Minds

Beezup—Do you agree with the theory that a man and his wife eventually get so they think of the same things?

Benedict—Certainly. Why, right now my wife is thinking of the things she is going to say to me for getting home late—and so am I.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Variety

"Yes, I like to give my husband variety in his meals, especially at dinner time."

"Really, how do you manage it?"

"Well, I give him boiled ham, but I buy it from a different shop every day."—El Paso World-News.

Vanity Fair

"Fashion has lengthened skirts for formal occasions."

"Yes," said Miss Cayenne. "Fashion is something like a whistle game. A clever player is most effective when she brings in her long suit."

Tipping the Captain's Hand

Pretty Caller—Do you think the captain will see me now?

Orderly—Certainly, madam, the captain always has time to see pretty girls.

Pretty Caller—Well, tell him that his wife is here.

Let Dad Answer

"All right," said the resigned father to his curious son, "you can ask one more question."

"Well, Dad, if I were twins, which one would I be?"—Hartford Courant.

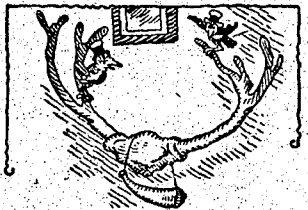

Cut and Slash

Customer (having rough shave)—I say, barber, have you got another razor?

Barber—Yes, why?

Customer—I want to defend myself.

THE PUZZLE

Trump This One

Fop—Don't you know the early bird catches the worm?

Doc—Well, it serves the worm right for getting up ahead of birds.

Twins Celebrate 85th Birthday

Mrs. Martha Scott Loucks (left) and Mrs. Elizabeth Scott Howell, twin sisters, of Yonkers, N. Y., celebrated their eighty-fifth birthday recently, spending the day quietly. The women, who live with Mrs. Loucks' son, Frank Loucks, and his family, saw the Middle West change from Indian territories to the present state of development. They were born in Claysville, Pa., and were reared in western Pennsylvania when the section was "backwoods." They remember when the soldiers came home from the Civil war and later, when they lived in the West, they remember soldiers being stationed at their home to protect them from Indians.

The Serbian Tragedy

King Alexander of Serbia and his wife, Queen Draga, were assassinated in their palace in Belgrade on June 10, 1903, as the result of a military conspiracy. Draga was a former lady-in-waiting to Alexander's mother. She was the widow of an engineer named Mashin, and was 10 years older than the king. The king's reactionary policies had for years made him unpopular.

Sociability

"Why do neighbors quarrel?" asked the kindly citizen. "Mostly for sociability," said Farmer Cornstossel. "If you try to go ahead and mind your own business some folks are sure to think you're stuck up and don't want to notice 'em."

Get Down to Facts

Restaurant Customer—Take this ham sandwich back and give me another one. This thing doesn't taste right.

Proprietor—If you will remove the cellophane wrapper it might taste more like a ham sandwich.—Boston Transcript.

"Little Stories for Bedtime" by Thornton W. Burgess

JERRY IS FILLED WITH DISTRUST

AS JERRY MUSKRAT lay in his bed, safe in his house, nursing his sore tail, he had time to do a lot of thinking. He thought of how day after day he had found all those good things to eat at each of his favorite eating places, and how there had not been one single thing to make him suspicious. In fact, there had been everything to take suspicion away. He began to understand just what that trapper had tried to do, and it seemed to him that nothing could possibly have been more unfair.

"He tried to make me think he was my friend," thought Jerry. "He knew that if I had the least suspicion that he wasn't my friend, I would be watching for traps. So he pretended that he was my friend and he brought all those nice things to me to eat so that I would trust him. I did trust him, and he knew it. Then when he was sure that I wouldn't suspect him of doing such a thing he set that awful trap for me. I'll never trust anybody again! I never, never will! It's awful to distrust everybody, but after this I'll just have to."

So Jerry Muskrat was filled with distrust. He had been so very happy there in the Smiling Pool for so long that now life seemed hardly worth while. There was no happiness in it. You see, he felt that not only could he no longer trust those who seemed to be his friends, but he was suspicious of everything. He no longer dared to freely climb out of his favorite places along the bank. He was even suspicious of the Big Rock. The only place where he felt absolutely safe was right inside his own house.

But of course he couldn't stay in his own house all the time, because he had to eat. Of course, everybody has to eat. Then, too, he had a lot of work yet to do on that house of his to make it ready for winter. This meant that he had to travel around considerably to get his food and to get the material for his house. But now he never went ashore without first looking with the greatest care for signs of a trap.

One of the first things he did after he got through nursing his sore tail was to go to each of the places where that trapper had put good things to eat. He went there, not to get those good things, but to find out if there were traps there as there had been on the old log. He found a trap at each place. After that he did not go near these places.

Billy Mink would have found a way to get all those good things to eat without getting into one of the traps, but Jerry preferred to take no chances. He simply kept away from those places. Those pieces of carrot and apple were a terrible temptation, but he contented himself with his regular food and tried to forget that there were such things as carrots and apples. And even when he was hunting for his regular food he was all the time watching out for traps. He was so filled with distrust that he took no joy in anything.

Public Opinion

THE CIVIL SERVICE BILL

(By Miles M. Callaghan, Senator 28th District)

Section 1 of this Act starts out with this paragraph: "The purpose of this Act is to guarantee to all citizens a fair and equal opportunity for public service."

This is a high and laudable purpose and nobody can question or should question any man or set of men who are attempting to bring this about, but this monstrosity known as Senate Bill No. 1, in my opinion, goes so far from this laudable purpose, and without amendment or change, I am opposed to the Bill.

This Bill sets up a State Civil Service Commission to consist of four persons, not more than two of whom shall be members of the same political party, but when I made an attempt to clarify this section that would prevent loading of the Commission with political henchmen of the Governor, who is the appointing power, the advocates of the Bill rejected the proposal. These Commissioners, after appointment by the Governor, under the Act, must be confirmed by the Senate, but it is a significant fact that must be kept in mind here, that under the Act the terms of office of these Commissioners expire on July 1st over a period of eight years, at a time when the legislature is not in session, and would not for two years after the appointment, so the Senate would have nothing to do with the confirmation and an attempt to correct this provision was defeated. It is intended that these Commissioners will serve for a period of eight years and their salary is fixed at $15,000 per day and all necessary expenses, and for the first two years no limit shall be fixed on the number of days the Commissioners shall be employed. This would mean, of course, that they would work every day for the first two years.

The State Personnel Director is to be elected by the Commission at a salary of $10,000.00 a year and his necessary expenses, which would be a considerable sum, and establishes, in my opinion, the most dictatorial official in any Commonwealth of the Union. He is subject to no regulations by the Commission or the Legislature and from his rulings there is no appeal. He may fix the salaries of employees who cannot be promoted or demoted, hired or fired, without his consent. He can establish minimum standards as to requirements of education, in fact anything that he may desire as to qualifications. The head of the department will have nothing to say as to the type of employee. He has power to transfer employees from one department to another at will, arrange for suspension, lay-off, leaves of absence, resignations, hours of service, vacations and sick leave. No Governmental Director was ever given such powers without supervision, and I am sure such an action by the Legislature would not be approved by the thinking people of this great Commonwealth of Michigan.

Mr. Pollock and his Commission spent $10,000.00 in investigations, hearings and so forth and preparing the Bill. They are asking for $45,000.00 to pay expenses until the first of July, 1937 in setting up the machinery for the operation of the Act. $245,000.00 for the fiscal year ending July 1st, 1938 and $200,000.00 for the fiscal year ending July 1st, 1939. This means that it will cost the people of the State of Michigan $500,000.00 in two years if this Bill becomes a law. Quite a considerable sum of money—especially in view of the fact that the State must find some new source of revenue if we are going to carry on the ordinary and necessary cost of government in Michigan for the next two years. Our schools and educational institutions are demanding large increase in appropriations and the situation in our mental institutions is appalling and should have an appropriation of $20,000,000.00 immediately so that the thousands of persons admitted to these institutions might have hospitalization. This one-half million dollars could be used for a hundred different purposes much more worth-while.

Senate Bill No. 3, which I introduced the second day of the Session would do everything that this so-called Civil Service Bill would do at a minimum of cost and much more practically and efficiently.

The Pollock Bill has passed the Senate, after four days of long and tedious debate. Many Senators voted for the Bill, hoping that the House of Representatives would so change it that it would be workable and efficient, without the lavish expenditure of money and to take out the provisions pertaining to the dictatorial director. I was one of the Senators who opposed the passage of this measure, but inasmuch as I am committed to the principle of Civil Service and the Merit System, I am hoping that the House of Representatives will make the necessary changes so that we can establish that principle of selecting of the State Employees in Michigan but I will continue to oppose Senate Bill No. 1 unless the necessary changes are made.

In closing let me say that in my long years of experience as a member of the Legislature I have never seen such a vicious and persistent lobby and so much pressure brought upon the Legislature by interested persons and so much propaganda, most of it lying and vicious, as there is behind this so-called Civil Service Bill. Comparatively few persons who are advocating its passage have ever read it or know what it contains, but still are advocating its passage, because it is called a Civil Service Bill. This lobby maintaining expensive quarters in the principal office building in Lansing, seemed to be well financed, which is entirely unnecessary by the advocates of any good piece of legislation. I am one hundred percent for the Merit System, but not for this so-called Pollock Bill.

The Trail of Truth

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

Man kind moves onward day by day,
But some men grow impatient. They
Are like the lad who runs ahead
And scorns the path his elders
Tread.

Deserts the trail the woods to try,
Though there's a road to travel by.

Yet he shall presently return,
Young error yet old truth shall Learn.

The marks of other men remain,
Their cairns erected on the plain.
Here high in the shafts of honor lift
Erected on the rock of thrift.

Impatient hands would change the earth,

When it is men who must have worth;

And you may pass a thousand laws,
Yea, even in a righteous cause,
Yet statutes will not make a state
While men still covet, men still hate.

We need not change the law, we need
Not alter anything, indeed,
Except men's hearts — and even they Need not the dawn of some new day,

Need not new trails that men may miss,
But men who better follow this.

DO THE LINES IN OUR FACE
REVEAL THE EMOTIONS
THAT DOMINATE US?

OUR emotions are registered quite accurately on our faces. Actors practice certain facial expressions in order to portray certain characteristics, and paint lines on their faces to suggest the emotions desired. The same sets of muscles are used in expressing both happiness and sorrow, hate or joy; but they are used in a different way. People who are usually cheerful, eventually develop lines in the face that suggest this, and as old age with all its wrinkles comes on them, they have still a pleasant face. People who are constant grouches, always worrying, and never happy develop lines that suggest these emotions. The face is the mirror of our characteristic emotional life.

TWO CRAWFORD COUNTY SCHOOLS WIN HONORS IN XMAS-SEAL SALES

For selling more tuberculosis Christmas seals per capita than any other rural school enrollment in Crawford county, children at the Feldhauser school were this week awarded a fascinating game called "Little America," by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association. The prize was sent to the children through Mrs. A. J. Wakeley, teacher at the Feldhauser school and under whose direction the sale was conducted.

Second place honors and a handsomely cut wall mirror were won by the children at Richardson school. Pauline Edmonds is the teacher there who had charge of the sale.

Congratulations of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association were expressed to both Crawford county schools by Theodore J. Werle, executive secretary of the Association. Mr. Werle declared that the part of the school children in the recent Christmas seal sale was an inspirational one.

"The children and teachers too are indeed to be congratulated," said Mr. Werle. "Their victory is particularly significant because of the fact that the total sale in the majority of rural schools increased so substantially this year. To win meant out-selling the field in one of the best Christmas seal sales Michigan has had since the start of the recent depression."

"Although it is possible to award prizes only to first and second place schools the Association is equally grateful to the many other rural schools in Crawford county and the rest of the state for their part in the thirtieth annual sale of tuberculosis Christmas seals. Without their participation an increase over the sale of a year ago could never have been realized."

Mr. Werle likewise commended the interest of the children in a work that aims to safeguard them against tuberculosis. He pointed out that it is largely through health education and the case-finding procedures that are carried on in the schools that the control of tuberculosis will eventually be effected. Each year, Mr. Werle added, this work is made possible in the Michigan schools through tuberculosis Christmas seal funds.

The game "Little America" was of special interest to the children in view of the fact that it deals with the exploits of Admiral Richard E. Byrd, who before the opening of the Christmas seal sale sent a message to all rural school children in Michigan urging them to support the campaign.

Mother's Cook Book

FEEDING THE FAMILY

THIS seems to be the principal work of at least twenty million housewives, but feeding the family on the proper food is not a light job to be undertaken with no thought.

Food is not necessarily nutritious in proportion to its cost. The high-priced foods appeal to the eye and imagination, so they seem most desirable.

Going marketing is a wonderful education as well as a great developer of will power, or resistance to temptation, for it takes real self-denial to pass by the crisp and green cucumber or the box of strawberries, when the price is beyond the purse.

The mother of a family should, of all people, understand food values, for she is in a position to build up or tear down bodies and ruin digestions. "Bad habits ruin life as do weak bones the body."

The protein foods such as meat, eggs, fish, cheese and milk are the most expensive and complex. Carbohydrates are the starches and sugars; potatoes, rice, macaroni are our principal source of starch and the sugars we get from various sources — honey — from fruits and such vegetables as beets.

An excess of meat is very bad for it clogs the system and causes self-poisoning.

Brain workers and the young as well as aged need easily digested foods. Active muscle workers need coarse foods, which are better for their needs; however, all need roughage to give bulk and increase the intestinal activity.

The growing child needs milk, butter, eggs, green vegetables and fruits to supply all the food principles and the vitamins which promote growth.

The diet should be varied as well as mixed. Substitute rice and macaroni for potatoes, not serving any two at the same meal.

What Price Glory

The nice lady entered the restaurant and ordered an omelet. The waiter took the order.

"I'm sorry to have to explain madam," he said, "that the price of omelets has been raised. It's on account of the war, you know."

"My goodness!" exclaimed the nice lady, "are they throwing eggs at each other now?"

In Bradford's good beer—you'll drink it no fault—
It's made without fail from that good barley malt.

The quality of Altes Lager that makes it such an outstanding favorite must be credited to the discovery made by Louis W. Schimmel, brewer for over fifty years. Mr. Schimmel, seeking a different and better beer, perfected his private recipe after years of patient effort. His discovery won immediate and wide-spread popularity. The importance of this private recipe lies in the fact that it produces a distinctive and better beer—a beer that cannot be imitated.
